

In Space.

There is a place

In the middle of space

Where we all feel so very small.

We look up at the stars

Or count passing cars

Praying our days are not numbered.

With tears in our eyes

We shake our fists at the sky

And wonder how we ended up here.

